- For the purpose of our legitimate business interests, which include:
 - ensuring that content from our site is presented in the most effective manner for you and for your computer
 - providing your employer with information, products or services that they request from us or which we feel may interest them
 - allowing you to participate in interactive features of our service, when you choose to do so notifying you about changes to our service

How we store your information

The data that we collect from you is stored on servers in the UK but it may be transferred to, and stored at, a destination outside the European Economic Area (“EEA”) subject to adequate safeguards being in place as approved by your employer. By submitting your personal data, you agree to this transfer, storing or processing. We will take all steps reasonably necessary to ensure that your data is treated securely and in accordance with this Privacy Policy.

All information you provide to us is stored on our own secure servers or secure servers provided by third parties who have agreed to comply with our data protection and security requirements. Where we have given you (or where you have chosen) a password which enables you to access certain parts of our site, you are responsible for keeping this password confidential. We ask you not to share a password with anyone.

Unfortunately, the transmission of information via the internet is not completely secure. Although we will do our best to protect your personal data, we cannot guarantee the security of your data transmitted to our site; any transmission is at your own risk. Once we have received your information, we will use appropriate procedures and security features to try to prevent unauthorised access.

Our retention of your information

We retain your data for as long as necessary to enable us to: (i) provide the relevant products and services and fulfil our contractual obligations, to your employer; (ii) assist your employer should it be subject to an inspection by tax authorities; (iii) comply with our legal and other contractual obligations; and (iv) resolve disputes and enforce our agreements. Specific retention periods apply for different categories of data.

Disclosure of your information

- We may disclose your personal information to any member of our group and to the following third parties:
- To your employer in order for us to provide our products and services to them

- To any suppliers or sub-contractors engaged by us to enable us to provide our products and services to your employer. Such suppliers or sub-contractors must comply with our data protection and security requirements
- To other suppliers providing services to TMC provided such suppliers comply with our data protection and security requirements
- Any potential purchaser of, or investor in, The Miles Consultancy Limited or its business and assets
- Any party to whom we are under a duty to disclose your personal data in order to comply with any legal obligation, enforce our terms of use and other agreements; or to protect the rights, property, or safety of The Miles Consultancy Limited, our customers, or others. This includes exchanging information with other companies and organisations for the purposes of fraud protection and credit risk reduction.

We may provide third parties who work with and/or advise the government on tax issues and policies relating to our business with aggregate information from data collected about users of our products and services but such information does not identify any individual.

Your rights in relation to your information

- The Miles Consultancy Limited adheres to applicable data protection laws in the European Economic Area, which include the following rights:
- If the processing of personal data is based on your consent, you have a right to withdraw consent at any time for future processing
